Business Update Release

Silver Touch Technologies Secures Airports Authority of India Project

Project spreads across 15 Airports in India

Ahmedabad, 10th September 2025: Silver Touch Technologies Limited, a prominent end-to-end IT Solutions Company with an extensive presence in e-Governance, enterprise technology, and digital transformation, is proud to announce that it has been awarded a prestigious contract by the Airports Authority of India (AAI) for the Supply, Installation, Testing, and Commissioning (SITC) of VHF Active Multicoupler systems, along with a secure network security solution to monitor and control network traffic across 15 airports in India.

The project will be executed in the Air Traffic Control (ATC) towers to provide a better communication infrastructure and protect against intrusion. This success underscores Silver Touch's established capabilities in providing strong, mission-critical technology solutions. Having a solid reputation in rolling out secure networking and communication systems, the company remains a vital facilitator of India's rapidly evolving aviation ecosystem.

Commenting on the development, Mr. Minesh V Doshi, Executive Director of Silver Touch Technologies Limited, said "We are proud to associate with the Airports Authority of India in developing the country's aviation infrastructure. This project reflects our focus on providing state-of-the-art, secure, and resilient technology solutions for mission-critical environments."

With this victory, Silver Touch once again establishes itself as a reliable technology partner for government and public sector businesses in helping India's digital and aviation infrastructure grow.
